Data as at 8:00am. Change from previous trading day (excluding the SFE which is the change during the night session). Source: Bloomberg.

Main Themes: News of a possible effective vaccine sent share markets higher overnight and underpinned the appetite for risk. US bond yields and the US dollar rose also.

Share Markets: In the US, the Dow Jones rose 2.9% overnight and the S&P500 increased 1.2%. The Nasdaq index fell slightly amid fears video conferencing platforms will underperform in a COVID-19-free world. Equities were supported by encouraging news over a vaccine for COVID-19.

In Europe, gains were even stronger. The German DAX increased 4.9% and the UK FTSE100 rose 4.7%. The Euro Stoxx 50 index soared 6.4%.

The ASX200 added 109 points (or 1.8%) yesterday as investors welcomed the end of uncertainty surrounding the US election. The index is at its highest level since March 5.

Interest Rates: US government bond yields lifted overnight, and the US yield curve steepened further from yesterday. The 2-year bond rate rose 2 basis points while the 10-year rate rose 11 basis points.

The Australian 10-year bond rate lifted 2 basis points to 0.77%.

Foreign Exchange: The US dollar strengthened against a basket of major currencies overnight.

The Australian dollar strengthened against the US dollar. Initially, it rose from 0.7267 to a near two-month high of 0.7340, but later declined to 0.7278.

Commodities: OPEC+ members openly discussed the possibility of postponing the increase in oil production, scheduled for January. The OPEC+ meeting and the news of an effective vaccine caused oil prices to surge. The West Texas Intermediate (WTI) quote for oil rose 7.5% overnight to US$39.94 a barrel.

Gold fell to US$1,867.95 an ounce. Other commodities were mixed.

COVID-19: A vaccine developed by Pfizer and BioNTech claims to protect over 90% of people from COVID-19. According to specialists, this is an extraordinary result as initial vaccine effectiveness usually ranges between 60% to 70%.

The vaccine was taken by tens of thousands of volunteers and results are still considered preliminary. However, this encouraging news may pave the way for companies to seek fast-tracking approvals if results are later confirmed.

Australia: There was no major economic data published yesterday in Australia.

Euro zone: The Sentix investor confidence index declined in November, although not as much as consensus expected. The index fell from a negative reading of 8.3 in October to negative 10.0 in November, which is the lowest level in three months. A negative figure indicates pessimism over future economic prospects. The result is unsurprising given the recent surge in COVID-19 in Europe.
